

‘It is a very common mistake to think that the only way to improve the world is to change the system. In fact, the only way to improve the world is to change the people. The system will change itself if the people are good enough to demand it.’

--

<ul style="list-style-type: none">______________________________

